

Coming soon to your librarysomething for everyone

When we conducted a survey of the SWAN membership at the beginning of our ILS search there were a few things that everyone wanted “out of the box”

- Acquisitions
 - Cataloging
 - Circulation
 - Serials
- and of course an OPAC ---one customized and branded for your library

The SirsiDynix OPAC is called Enterprise. Have you heard about the Enterprise OPAC and e-books?

SirsiDynix eResourceCentral provides E-book integration within the SWAN catalog without titles having to be loaded. Most importantly, your patrons will be able to download e-books without leaving your catalog.

And not just e-books but journal articles from your subscription databases too - seamlessly through EBSCO EDS

But wait there's more

How about mobile devices for staff?

You can run MobileCirc on a tablet to perform checkouts, checkins, patron registration, renewals, inventory, view the hold list for item retrieval, remotely print hold slips, mark items missing, and of course run offline circ.

Wait-- did you say “Inventory”?

Yes, you can scan books using a wand or barcode scanner with a tablet in the stacks for inventory and mark items for discard.

At this point you are probably saying, “What about my digital assets?”

Your digital assets can be accessed in the SWAN catalog through a referenced URL or after they are uploaded to the SWAN database. SirsiDynix Portfolio makes it all happen.

Now we know it is all about the patrons

How about something for the patrons always on the go

It's called ----Bookmyne+

Patrons can locate local libraries using GPS maps, they can scan the ISBN off a book jacket and search for the item in their library, patrons can place a hold, even update the email address in their patron record.

Also, your Library can brand Bookmyne+ using the library name, icon, colors, and integrate your library RSS feed.

What about my patrons that use Social Media

There is Facebook integration for your library with a link to search the catalog, place holds, renew items, download e-books, "Like" titles, view fines, cancel holds, and suspend holds along with Tweet and Google+

And for the homebound ?

Outreach - keeps track of your homebound patron's interests, history, even develops delivery routes for your library.

What about communicating with your patrons?

Notices can be delivered via e-mail, text messages, or telephony (SVA). Patrons can specify their notices delivery preference. Foreign language preference is also a possibility.

Oh, did we mention E-commerce?

Of course patrons can pay fines and bills through the OPAC, once BlueCloud Marketplace is available libraries will have the option of allowing patrons to pay with a credit card at the Circ Desk.

What could possibly be left?

I don't know –let's make all the major modules available for staff through a web based interface. The product is called the BlueCloud Suite and is rolling out to libraries in 2014 and 2015.
